AMERISURE'S DIGITAL INNOVATION PRACTICE CHOSEN FOR NOVARICA IMPACT AWARD

FARMINGTON HILLS, Mich., July 22, 2019 — Amerisure's digital innovation practice has been improving digital efficiency and capabilities via emerging technologies, since it began nearly two years ago. This year, those strides were recognized when the practice was honored with an Impact Award from the Novarica Insurance Technology Research Council.

The council is a peer community of more than 100 insurance carriers spanning life/annuity/retirement, property/casualty and reinsurance — including more than 25 percent of the insurers in the Fortune 500. Fifty chief information officer council members reviewed dozens of case studies to select winners for the eighth annual awards.

This is the largest purely peer-juried award in insurance technology.

“We are very excited about this recognition by our peers,” said Jim Suchara, vice president of digital innovation at Amerisure. “Through incredible executive sponsorship, business engagement and information technology collaboration with emerging technology partners, we’ve built a solid foundation for innovation that will allow us to better serve our customers. We look forward to using this success to propel our future digital innovation efforts.”
